the Mormon Church, feating from the Danaities of the Mormon militia, under Brighem Young and Heber C. Kimball, were preparing to leave Salt Lake City, with provisions and animuni tions for a six weeks' campaign in the mountains to the custward, and thus to stop, if possible, the passage of the United States troops although the positive destination was a secret known only to the leaders of the Church, yet it was generally supposed that at the pass in the mountains near Bear River out-off, or at Steeple Rocks, the stand would be made by the Salt Lake forces, with an almost certainty of "wiping out" the entire force sent against them. They, and all the mountain men with whom I have conversed, easie that in the event of a stand being taken in some of the mountain gorges this side of Salt Lake, ten men can easily and successfully cope with one hundred and fifty United States soldiers. And who knows these mountain ranges and gorges, with their advantages and disadvantages better than the Mormons? This report also brings the somewhat expected news that many of the Indian tribes from Seuthern Oregon and Utah were secretly preparing to join the Mormon force.

One company of mounted riflemen or infantry, taken from the eithins of the far West, will do more service and stand hardships better than four companies of Uncles Samuel's "bright buttons" or "sepander as they are derisively, termed by the Indians. Let the War Department, with its capable and efficient head, hook well to this matter. Let him ask himself whether that company of hunders from Southwesters Virginia, many years ago, over which he presided as Captain, if I recollect aright, and who did militia duty under his orders—aix feet in their stockings—would not do more service in frontier, fighting than four times that number of regulars.

Having alluded to the commencement of h Banking House Having alluded to the commencement of his trial, the trial now in progress at Columbus, leads me to recall to the minds of many of your readers, incidents in the life of a bold young burglar, noted a few years ago for his skill as a thief, and his during in efforts to escape from custody. I allude to 'Nebraska Bill,' Jones or Morgan, as he is called, now in arrest and confinement in Franklin County in all charged with the murder over three years. A few facts of his history may be of interest. His father, who lives near Candene Station, Lorain County, Ohio, says that William was born in September, 1830, making him now twenty-serven years of age, although the prisoner claims to be thirty-two years of age, and the same in the sa A Pomade for beaut NEW YORK & ERIE RAILBOAD-SPECIAL NO Real Estate, Stock and BROKERAGE oreign Exchange, Passage & Oct-MERRELL, MASON & RE PREPARED TO NE on Rosany. are remeate that ensure among his playmates, on their twitting him for being "churched" for catching an old ram or Sinday, soured him of his companions and naive home, where live five brothers and two sisters, and indeed him to wander abroad.

Away from his mother his associations became worse and worse; he appeared not in his old hannis for five years, when chancing to pass along the railroad on foot, he stopped at alghtfall to make longairy at a farm home, how near was the next tavern, when the mother recognized and detained her transt son. He shode all winter with his father, and engaged in bossing hands on the railroad.

In 1853, he, with the notorious Osborn alias Shepherd, was arrested in Buffallo, on suspicion of having shot a watchman of that city. Both broke from custody and made their escape to Erie, Pa., where they united in a bold burglary, and were again arrested. Soon their prison was broken by them, and the pair succeeded in reaching Cleveland without detection. For some orime they were arrested in the Forest City—broke jail—were re arrested and discharged for insufficiency of testimony. They pursued their way down the caual, doing some mischief where ever they could, and reached Newark in Licking county, where baving made day light observation of the residences of the bufter t-dopeople, at night saftered into some fifteen dwellings, robbing jewelry, silver ware, and other valuables. Here they were again arrested, but jails being no impediment to them, both soon escaped, a key having been made from a stool escaped, so has been pursued by officer Whie, jumped from the car while under way, was pursued to Columbus, where on the 27th Agril, 1854, he killed Beebe, a Columbus officer, who tried to arrest him; he escaped to Cincinnati, thence to the Pineries up Turkey River, Minnesota.
